

The Power of God

She really wanted to end her life then,
For there was nowhere, no one to turn to
God came to her and said not now, not when,
She was only a child but she knew
The power of God, the strength he gave her.

She prayed for life, far away and new,
Away from her parents and away from here.
For peace and quiet and no more violence,
Away from those supposed to protect her life,
And from those who had no moral sense.
Those cruel people had no chance of her love.

They finally got what they deserved,
For when she grew up they were not loved.
